

INDEX.

ACTA QUÆ APUD SANCTAM SEDEM GERUNTUR, noticed, 484.

Allies (T. W.), Formation of Christendom, noticed, 210.

Aparisi y Guigarro (P.), Le Roi d'Espagne, reviewed, 169.

AUTHORITY OF THE SCHOLASTIC PHILOSOPHY, 33-47: Evil intellectual influence of the philosophy of Descartes, 33; high religious importance of true philosophy, 34; evil effects of Catholic philosophical differences, 39; the Pall Mall Gazette on the character of Catholic belief, 36; possibility of obtaining philosophical unity, 37; character of Father Kleutgen's work, 38; his view of the infallibility of the Church in sciences closely related to theology, 39; connection of the Church's theology with the scholastic philosophy, 40; attacks of Descartes and others on the scholastic philosophy, 41; character of Father Ramière's essay, 42; relation of the Catholic philosopher to the Church, 43; the principle of authority not adverse to, but conservative of, true philosophy, 44; criteria of the Church's judgment on philosophical subjects, 45; summary of our whole argument, 46; the Saturday Review on the scholastic philosophy, 47.

BARNET MAGAZINE (the), noticed, 238.

Baudry (Abbé F.), Life of Henry Dorié, martyr, noticed, 242.

Bottalla (F.), Strictures on Mr. Ffoulkes's Letter, noticed, 491.

Boudon (Archdeacon), the Hidden Life of Jesus, noticed, 503.

Bowden (J. E., of the Oratory), the Life and Letters of F. W. Faber, D.D., reviewed, 109.

Bowles (Emily), Joan of Arc, by Mgr. Dupanloup, translated, noticed, 508.

Browning (Robert, M.A.), The Ring and the Book, reviewed, 48.

Brownlow (Rev. W. R.), Roma Sotterranea, noticed, 215; reviewed, 393.

Butt (Isaac), The Irish People and the Irish Land, reviewed, 443.

——— Land Tenure in Ireland, reviewed, 443.

CARLOW COLLEGE MAGAZINE (The), noticed, 237; reviewed, 297.

Caterini (Cardinal), Letter of, on the Civil Princedom of the Holy Father, 185.

CATHOLIC CONTROVERSY, 377-392: Recent reprehensive remarks of the "Month" regarding the DUBLIN REVIEW, 377; the "Month's" paper on liberal Catholicism, 378; naturalism, 378, 379; its connection with liberal Catholicism, 379, 380; the "Month's" opinion of the French liberal Catholics, 380, 381; its general estimate of the dangers of liberal
VOL. XIII. — NO. XXVI. [New Series.] 2 N

Catholicism, 382 ; connection between Jansenism, Gallicanism, Minimization, and liberal Catholicism, 383 ; our own relation to French liberal Catholicism, 384 ; the "Month's" agreement with our view of Infallibility, 385 ; two accusations against the conduct of the DUBLIN REVIEW, 385, 386 ; the "Civiltà Cattolica" on liberal Catholicism, 387, 388 ; the letter of Cardinal Caterini, 388 ; the Pope's commanded letter to M. de Beaulieu, 389 ; the position of laymen in regard to questions of philosophy and religious politics, 390 ; disadvantage of English Catholic controversialists as compared with those of some other countries, 391 ; our real object in this controversy, 392.

CATHOLIC HOME POLITICS (A GLANCE AT), 180-184 ; importance to Catholics of the questions of Irish disestablishment and popular education, 180 ; action of the House of Lords on the Irish Church Bill, 181 ; Lord Salisbury and Lord Derby, 182 ; the meeting of Catholics in St. James's Hall on the education question, 183, 184.

Cazenove (J. G., M.A.), Some Aspects of the Reformation, noticed, 242.

Civiltà Cattolica (the) in reply to Le Français, 190 ; noticed, 469.

Cobb (Gerald F., M.A.), Few Words on Reunion, noticed.

DAEMS (Rev. S.), The Double Sacrifice, noticed, 244.

Dechamps (Mgr.), L'Infaillibilité et le Concile Général, noticed, 477.

Declaration of the Irish Hierarchy, noticed, 482.

DUBLIN REVIEW, A Letter to the Editor of, noticed, 230.

Dufferin (Lord), Irish Emigration and the Tenure of Land in Ireland, reviewed, 443.

Dupanloup (Mgr.), Joan of Arc, noticed, 443.

EXPLICIT AND IMPLICIT THOUGHT, 422-442 : Difficulty of knowing certainly God's existence on grounds of reason, 421 ; F. Kleutgen's statement of this difficulty, 422-425 ; his doctrine represented in two theses, 425 ; coincidence of his view with that of F. Newman, 426 ; reasoning by impressions, 427 ; distinction between reasoning and argument, 428 ; the latent grounds of reason, 429 ; F. Newman on the difficulty of representing distinct mental images, 430 ; argument the instrument of philosophy, 431 ; Catholics in the field of argument, 432 ; correctness of implicit reasoning best secured by simplicity of intention, 433, 434 ; F. Kleutgen's doctrine as to axiomatic truths, 435 ; Catholic instincts and Catholic atmosphere, 436 ; practical results from our theory, 437, 438 ; the Church's evidence of credibility, 439 ; the Times and Pall Mall Gazette on mixed education, 439, 440 ; necessity to all classes of Catholic education, 441, 442.

FABER (F.), Letter of the Reviewer of his Life and Letters, 531.

FABER (F.) THE LIFE OF, 109-143 : The perfectly unique character of F. Faber, 109, 110 ; excellence of F. Bowden's biography, 111 ; F. Faber's letters 112 ; F. Faber's early life, 113 ; his early desire to be an Anglican clergyman, 114 ; his wonderful love of scenery, 115 ; his residence at Elton, 116 ; power and beauty of his journal, 117 ; state of Oxford when Faber came into residence, 118-120; the Broad Church and Tractarian movement, 120-121; F. Faber's studies, 122; his religious line, 123; his life at Elton, 124; his tour to Rome, 125; his management of his parish, 126, 127; the Lives of the English Saints, 128; his conversion, 129; the Brothers of the Will of God, 130; establishment of the Oratory, 131; foundation of the London Oratory, 132; his life at King William Street and Brompton, 132, 133; immense extent of the influence of the London Oratory, 134, 135; his sense of the beauty of the Protestant translation of the Scriptures, 136; passages from his letters, 137; his hymns, and series of Lives of Saints, 138; particulars regarding his books, 139, 140; his great sufferings, 141, 142; his death, 143.

Fitzgibbon (Gerald), The Land Difficulty in Ireland, reviewed, 443.

Franzelin (Joanne B.), Tractatus de Sacramentis in Genere, noticed, 222.

———, Tractatus de Eucharistiâ, noticed, 222.

GALLICAN ASSEMBLY (THE) OF 1682, 328-361: Great value of M. Gérin's researches, 328; importance of establishing the truth in the Gallican controversy, 329; Napoleon I. and Louis XIV., 330; the quarrel of Louis XIV. with Pope Alexander VII., 331; way in which Louis XIV. conducted the quarrel, 332; the Paris faculty of theology and the six articles, 333, 334; action of the procureur-général and Parliament, 335; Colbert's relations with the faculty, 336; the registering of the six articles, 337; the question of the Regale, 338; the case of the Bishop of Pamiers, 339; Madame de Sévigné's character of the Pope, 340; the "petite assemblée," 341; the elections for the national council, 342; Mr. Morante's interview with the Cardinal Archbishop of Aix, 342, 343; the provincial assembly of Aix, 344; the assembly of 1862, by no means a national council, 345; deposition of Archbishop De Harnay, 346; part played by M. Bossuet, 347; his dispositions in relation to the court, 348; servility of the assembly to the king, 349; Bossuet's real intentions, 350; the opposition to the four articles, 351; registration of the declaration at the Sorbonne, 352; suspension of the faculty, 353; corruption of the French Church, 354; the crown and the Church in the 17th century, 355, 356; character of Louis XIV.'s advisers, 357; Louis's opinion of the French bishops, 358; great preachers and theologians of the age, 359; relations of the Papal and the French governments, 360, 361.

GARSID (C. B., M.A.), Discourses on Parables, noticed.

Gerdil (Cardinal), Brief Exposition of the True Religion, noticed, 230.

Gérin (Charles), Recherches Historiques sur l'Assemblée du Clergé de France de 1682, noticed, 216; reviewed, 328.

Gillow (John, D.D.), Catholic Higher Education, noticed, 230.

———, Letter on Oxford Education, 515.

Guy (Robert C., B.A.), edition of Hilton's Ladder of Perfection, reviewed, 319.

HALLAHAN (Mother Margaret), Life of, noticed, 198.

Hamley (Colonel), Operations of War, noticed, 509.

Hancock (W. Neilson), Two Reports on the Landlord and Tenant Question, reviewed, 443.

Herbert (Lady), Life of Henry Dorié, martyr, noticed, 242.

Hidden Life (The), noticed, 503.

Hilton (Walter), The Scale or Ladder of Perfection, reviewed, 319.

Hosack (John), Mary Queen of Scots and her Accusers, noticed, 214.

Hunter (F.), Theses, noticed, 482.

INDIA (Religious Prospects of), reviewed, 262.

INDIA (THE) RELIGIOUS TENDENCIES OF, 261-296 : Character of the books of Messrs. Marshall and Strickland, 261 ; progress of Catholic missionaries in the Deccan and in other parts of India, 262, 263 ; Effects of the English language and literature on the Hindoo mind, 264 ; duty of the English nation in regard to India, 264 ; the non-Aryan races, 265 ; German-Lutheran missions, 266 ; the great impediment to Catholic missions, 267 ; caste, as a barrier to conversion, 268 ; F. Robert de Nobili, 269, 270 ; Protestant missions in India, 271 ; general character of the Protestant missionaries, 272 ; difficulty of the missionary's life in India, 273 ; discord of the Christian sects, 274 ; effect of the Catholic unity, 275 ; the new missionary propaganda of education, 276 ; relation of the Indian Government to Protestant missionaries, 277 ; origin and nature of the English Government in India, 278 ; religious views of the rulers of India, 279 ; system of education established since 1854, 280 ; conversion of the educated classes essential to any general action on the Hindoo masses, 281 ; effect of English secular education on the Hindoo mind, 282 ; the new religious system—Brahmism, 283 ; sketch of its history, 284 ; its principles and aspirations, 285 ; extracts from its tracts, 286-292 ; inconsistencies of Brahism, 292 ; work of the Jesuits of Calcutta, 293, 294 ; great activity of the Protestant missionaries, 294, 295 ; future of Catholicism in India, 296.

IRISH CHURCH (THE) EARLY, 1-32 : Lord John Manners on the history of the Irish Church, 1 ; the Archbishop of Armagh and Bishop of Oxford on the same topic, 2 ; Dr. Todd on one of S. Patrick's canons, 3 ; general character of Dr. Moran's work, 4 ; origin and history of S. Patrick, 4-7 ; doctrine taught by him, 7 ; testimonies to the Roman origin of S. Patrick's mission, 8 ; early Irish psalms and hymns, 9, 10 ; the missal of S. Columbanus, 11 ; his letter to Pope S. Boniface, 12-15 ; the Irish theologian Claudius Clemens, 15 ; Ussher upon Clemens, 16 ; S. Cumman's letter on the Paschal question, 17 ; reference to Rome, 18 ; S. Colman and S. Wilfrid, 19 ; early Irish testimonies to the supremacy of Rome, 20 ; Gillibert and S. Malachy, 21 ; canons of the Irish Church relative to Rome, 22, 23 ; appeal of the Ulster Bishops to the Pope, 23 ; Irish pilgrimages to Rome and foreign pilgrimages to Ireland, 23, 24 ; the Irish missionaries, 25 ; Pope Zachary's letter to Witta, 26 ; S. Killian and S. Canice, 27 ; Sedulius, S. Columba, S. Aidan, and other Irish missionaries, 28 ; Irish doctrine always identical with that of the general Church, 22 ; summary of the general argument, 29-32.

JESUIT SERMONS, noticed, 207.

KLEUTGEN (P. Giuseppe), La Filosofia antica, reviewed, 33.

——— (R. P.), L'Ontologisme jugé par le Saint Siège, reviewed, 297.

——— La Philosophie scolastique, reviewed, 297, 421.

LADDER (THE) OF PERFECTION, 319-328 : Great value of such works as F. Hilton's, 319 ; the study of mystical theology, 320 ; the mystic and scholastic, 321 ; the principal mystics, 322 ; special value of F. Hilton's ascetic writings, 323 ; his prominent devotion to Our Lord's humanity, 324 ; illustrations of this character of his devotion, 325 ; his remarks on humility, 326 ; his Sayings and Examples, 326, 327 ; care with which F. Guy has edited the book, 328.

LANDLORD (THE) AND TENANT QUESTION IN IRELAND, 443-468 : Generally admitted necessity of legislation, 443 ; the murder of James Hunter, 444-447 ; political effects of the Church Act, 447, 448 ; the Irish Times on tenant-right in Ulster, 448, 449 ; case of the Rev. Dr. O'Fay, P.P., 449, 450 ; effect of the present state of the law of equity, 451 ; argument from the case of purchasers under the Incumbered Estates' Act, 452 ; the province of the State in regard to landed property, 453 ; the Act 3 and 4 William IV., c. 27, 454 ; right of the State to regulate relations of landlord and tenant, 455, 456 ; limits of this right, 457 ; Lord Dufferin's argument from the freight paid for shipping, 457-459 ; evidence of the Times' Commissioner, 460, 461 ; general view of the proper legislation, 462, 463 ; demand and supply, 464, 465 ; estimated value of the Ulster tenant-right, 466 ; question of its extension, 467, 468.

LECKY (W. E. H., M.A.), History of European Morals, noticed, 203.

MARIE (Sœur), The Workwoman of Liège, noticed, 244.

Marshall (T. W. M.), Christian Missions, reviewed, 262.

Maskell (William, A.M.), Present Position of the High Church Party, noticed, 231.

Melia (Dr.), On Our Blessed Lady ; letter to the Editor, 512.

Meynell (Rev. C., D.D.), Padre Liberatore and the Ontologists, reviewed, 144, 297.

Mill (John Stuart), on Liberty, reviewed, 62.

MILL ON LIBERTY, 62-75 : Different meanings of the word liberty, 62, 63 ; Mr. Mill's various statements of its nature compared, 64, 65 ; Mr. Mill's doctrine only Pyrrhonism, 66-68 ; his argument for negative logic, 68 ; the State's duty in regard to education, 69 ; Mr. Mill's view of the functions of the State, 70 ; argument on the other side, 71, 72 ; Mr. Mill on authority in teaching, 73 ; the question of individuality, 74 ; Mr. Mill on the law of divorce, 75 ; conclusion, ib.

Mills (Rev. A.) Letter to the Editor, 527.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS ON CATHOLIC HIGHER EDUCATION, 88-109 : Valuable letters of Dr. Gillow and Canon Oakeley, 88 ; purpose of the present article, 88, 89 ; original statement in the Month of its proposal about Oxford and Cambridge, 89, 90 ; explanation in the Month, of May, of the writer's real meaning, 91, 92 ; the editor's strictures upon the DUBLIN REVIEW, 92 ; argument of a writer in the Month on the connection of Catholics with London University, 93-95; our own strong objection to the connection of Catholic colleges with that university, 96; allegations of the Month against the controversial fairness of the Review, 97-103; answer on various questions of fact, 103-105; real agreement of principle, 106; letter of the editor of the Month to the Tablet, 107; the July number of the Month, 108.

Month (The), reviewed 88, 377; noticed, 235.

Moran (Rev. Dr.), Essays on the Early Irish Church, reviewed, 1.

NEWMAN (J. H., B.D.), Sermons preached before the University of Oxford reviewed, 421.

Northcote (Rev. J. Spencer), Roma Sotterranea, noticed, 215; reviewed, 393.

OAKELEY (Very Rev. F.), on a Liberal Education, 246.

Letters to the Tablet, 531.

O'Mahony (Edmond W.), translation of Cardinal Gerdil's Brief Exposition, noticed, 230.

Oxford Education; letter of Dr. Gillow to the Editor, 515.

PHILOSOPHICAL AXIOMS, 144-169: Our anxiety to bring philosophical truths into harmony with theology and reason, 144; traditionalism, ontologism, scepticism, and empiricism, 145; statement of their respective methods, 146; absurdity of some of Descartes's positions, 147; the question "What are truths?" 148; and secondly, "What are first truths?" 149; "What are necessary truths, and how related to God?" 150; necessary not synonymous with universal, 151; necessary truths are uncaused truths, 152; the relation of God to other necessary truths 153; necessary truths founded on God's essence, 154; axioms necessary first truths, 155; are all non-empirical truths necessary? 156; axioms first intuited in the individual, 157; the scholastic doctrine that knowledge begins with sense, 158; many axioms deducible from others, 158, 159; may axioms be synthetical, 159, 160; F. Liberatore on axioms, 161; the scholastics and analytical propositions, 162; are all axioms reducible to the principle of contradiction, 163; Suarez on the passiones de ente, 164; F. Liberatore and Kant, 165; without necessary truth science cannot even exist, 166; attempt to reconcile the difference between Canon Walker and Dr. Meynell, 167-169.

PLANTIER (Mgr.), Les Conciles Généraux, noticed, 480.

PSYCHOLOGISM AND ONTOLOGISM, 296-318: Explanation relating to the "Carlow College Magazine," 297-300; suggested sense of the word "psychologism," 301; subversive character of the psychologistic hypothesis, 302, 303; is contradictory to the scholastic doctrine of intellectual light, 304; F. Kleutgen on S. Thomas' doctrine, 305; the scholastic doctrine a denial of psychologism, 306; fundamental and violent antagonism of the two philosophies, 307; the Lockean doctrine of abstraction, 308; citations from Suarez and F. Kleutgen, 308, 309; true sense of the word "psychologism," 310; S. Augustine's doctrine on mind, 311; Catholics in relation to Ontologism, 312; the cases of Branchereau, Ubaghs, and

- Hugonin, 313 ; the real doctrine of Ontologists, 314 ; points of dissent from the "Carlow College Magazine," 315 ; criticism of Dr. Meynell's view, 316 ; our general contention on the subject, 317, 318.
- Pusey (Rev. E. B.), First Letters to Very Rev. J. H. Newman, noticed, 238.
- RAMIÈRE, (Père H.), De l'Unité dans l'Enseignement de la Philosophie, reviewed, 33, 144.
- Redmond (E., D.D.), Eight Sermon Essays, noticed, 494.
- REVOLUTION (THE) IN SPAIN, 169-180 ; extraordinary foresight of the Duke of Wellington concerning the ruin of Spain by military revolutions, 169 ; his letters to the Duc de Richelieu and General Alava, 170 ; spirit of the Spanish stratocracy, 171 ; the last army estimates, 171, 172 ; the history of Spain since 1820, a series of military mutinies, 172 ; the regencies of Queen Christina and Espartero, 173 ; Prim's enmity to Espartero 173 ; energy and wisdom of O'Donnell's government, 174, 175 ; present state of Spain, 176 ; character of Monsieur Aparisi's pamphlet, 177 ; his description of the Duke and Duchess of Madrid, 178, 179 ; analogy between the position of Don Carlos and that of Prince Louis Napoleon, 179, 180 ; deep interest of the topic of Spanish royalty, 180.
- Riess (Florian), Die Oekumenische Concil, noticed, 227.
- RING (THE) AND THE BOOK, 48-62 : Mr. Browning's gross prejudice against the Catholic Church, 48 ; his absurd error about the Molinists, 49 ; the sixth and seventh commandments of "Half Rome," 50 ; Mr. Browning's indifference to the art of composition, 50, 51 ; his faults of metre, 52 ; illustrations from Tertiumquid, 52, 53 ; Browning and Tennyson, 53, 54 ; origin of the story, 54 ; its plot, 55, 56 ; Mr. Browning's mode of telling it, 56, 57 ; the character of Guido, 58 ; his speech to the court, 59 ; the character of Pompilia, 60 ; Caponsacchi's character, 61 ; the vanity of modern authors, 61, 62.
- Roman Documents, 185.
- Rossi (Commendatore de), Roma Sotterranea, noticed, 152 ; reviewed, 393.
- (Cav. G. B.), Bulletino di Archeologia Christiana, reviewed, 393.
- (Joannes B.), Inscriptiones Christianæ, reviewed, 393.
- Ryder (H. I. D., of the Oratory), Critique upon Mr. Ffoulkes's Letter, noticed, 485.
- SCHEEBEN (Dr.), Die Theologischen Censuren, noticed, 225.
- Shortland (Canon), The Corean Martyrs, noticed, 242.
- Society of Jesus, Sermon by Fathers of, noticed, 207.
- Stanley (Dean) and Mr. Mills, 527.
- SUTERRANEAN ROME, 393-421 : The labours of Danzetta and F. Zaccaria, 393 ; Maitland's and Burgon's books, 394 ; early collections of inscriptions, 395 ; the researches of Marini and Cardinal Mai, 396 ; Bosio's studies, 397 ; investigations of Alberti, Marangoni, and Padre Marchi, 398 ; De Rossi's first work on Roman archaeology, 399 ; his collection of Christian inscriptions, 400 ; respective parts of Dr. Northcote and Mr. Brownlow in the translation, 401 ; M. de Rossi's abstention from theological controversy, 402 ; general character of the Roman catacombs, 403 ; their illustration of the state of the early Christian community, 404, 405 ; the story of Flavia Domitilla, 406 ; the Roman law of burials, 407 ; special peculiarities of the Catacombs, 408 ; the cemetery of S. Prætextatus, 409 ; the crypt of S. Lucina, 410 ; the Papal crypt, 411-413 ; the art of the Catacombs, 413, 414 ; relation of early Christian and Pagan art, 415, 416 ; the picture of our Blessed Lady, 417 ; the paintings of the Catacombs, 418 ; the pictures of Moses and Lazarus, 419 ; inestimable value of De Ross's researches, 420.

SUPPRESSION (THE) OF ITALIAN MONASTERIES, 76-87 : Little attention yet generally given to the suppression of Italian monasteries, 76 ; splendour of their sites and historical associations, 77 ; the view from the hills above Assisi, 78 ; the valley of the Clitumnus and cultivation of the marshes, 79 ; the battle-field of Castel-Fidardo, 80 ; dreadful effect of the suppression of the monasteries on the religious life in Italy, 81 ; character of Mr. Taylor's work, 82 ; his testimony to monastic discipline and regularity, 83 ; his estimate of the standard of education in convents, 84 ; the practice of meditation in community, 84 ; Mr. Taylor's enjoyment of monastic life, 86 ; conclusion, 87.

TABLET, A Letter to the, reviewed, 88.

Taylor (Algernon), Convent Life in Italy, reviewed, 76.

Tickel (Rev. George, S.J.), Life of Blessed Margaret Mary, noticed, 504

Tracts entitled Inquiry after True Religion, reviewed, 262.

Trollope (Anthony) Phineas Finn, the Irish Member, reviewed, 361.

TROLLOPE'S (MR.) LAST IRISH NOVEL, 361-377 : Mr. Trollope considered as an Irish M.P., 361, 362 ; his position and qualities as a novelist, 363 ; his ecclesiastical portraits, 364 ; his studies of Irish life, 365 ; comparison of his Irish characters with Mr. Lever's, 366, 367 ; special merits of Phineas Finn, 367 ; the tea-party at Killaloe, 368, 369 ; Mr. Trollope's sketches of high society, 370 ; the character of Mr. Bunce, 371, 372 ; Mr. Monk's visit to Ireland, 373 ; Mr. Monk's views of tenant-right, 374 ; Mr. Monk and Phineas resign their offices, 375 ; defeat of the ministry on Mr. Monk's tenant-right bill, 376 ; conclusion, 377.

WALKER (Canon), Essay on First Principles, reviewed, 33, 144.

Weber (Karl von), Die Oekumenische Concil, noticed, 227.

